Accessibility Audits

In the same way that buildings must have ramps for people who use wheelchairs, information systems need to be accessible to people who are blind, deaf, or have physical disabilities.

MSF&W's expert accessibility testers can tell you if your systems comply with current accessibility standards and work with the assistive technologies that people with disabilities use.

Our experts test for compliance and compatibility with:

Accessibility Standards

- W3C Web Content Accessibility Guidelines 1.0 & 2.0
- Federal "Section 508" Accessibility Standards
- Illinois Information Technology Accessibility Act Standards

Assistive Technologies and Accessibility Tools

- Browser text size settings
- High contrast color schemes
- Keyboard commands
- ZoomText & MAGic screen magnifiers
- JAWS & Window-Eyes screen readers
- Dragon NaturallySpeaking speech recognition software

An accessibility audit from MSF&W will identify the issues that may make it difficult or impossible for people with disabilities to use your web site or information system.

In performing an audit, our expert accessibility testers will:

- Work with you to select a representative set of sample screens/pages from your system or site
- Provide an up-front quote for time and cost
- Test with leading automated testing tools
- Test with actual assistive technologies to identify the important issues that automated testing tools miss
- Explain how these issues are impacting your employees and/or customers with disabilities

Upon completion of the audit, you will receive an easy-to-understand report that presents our findings and recommendations, including the immediate steps you can take to improve accessibility.
